

ANZAM Research Colloquium Wednesday 21 April 2010

- 0830-0900 Registration
- 0900-0915 Welcome – Professor Nigel Healey, Pro Vice-Chancellor and Dean of Commerce, University of Canterbury
- 0915-0945 Introduction Participants/Research interests
- 0945-1045 Understanding the peer review process, Part I, Professor Udo Staber, University of Canterbury
- This session provides an introduction to the manuscript review process practiced by academic journals in the field of management and related areas. All steps in the review process will be discussed, from the first submission of a manuscript to the final editorial decision to accept or reject the manuscript. Part I of this session discusses the process up to the editorial decision to accept the manuscript for publication without revision.
- 1045-1105 Morning tea
- 1105-1205 The process of co-authorship and collaboration – Professor Kenneth Husted, University of Auckland
- This session outlines a) the importance of co-authorship and different approaches to structure a collaborative research process, and b) the benefits and pitfalls in external research collaboration and especially research collaboration with industry.
- 1205-1250 Lunch
- 1250-1320 Introduction to the topic and idea generation session, Part I – Professor Colin Campbell-Hunt, University of Otago
- This session will (1) discuss the likely contribution (as perceived by reviewers and examiners) of the various thesis projects to the broad literatures of knowledge management, organisational learning, resources and capabilities, (2) offer suggestions for the development of individual papers from the thesis projects – both for individual researchers and possible collaborations, and (3) identify a small number of areas of common interest for further discussion in the following session.

- 1320-1405 Idea / Group generation, Part II – Professor Colin Campbell-Hunt, University of Otago
- Small groups meet to define the objectives and contribution of papers that might be worked up from projects represented in the group.
- 1405-1420 Working tea break
- 1420-1615 Small Group Session – preparing abstracts and outlines for papers
- 1615-1630 Working tea break
- 1630-1700 Understanding the peer review process, Part II, Professor Udo Staber, University of Canterbury
- Part II of this session discusses the process between the editorial decision to invite the author to revise and resubmit the manuscript and the final accept/reject decision.
- 1700-1800 Outline presentations and Feedback, All
- 1900-???? City Centre: Dinner* and Socialising (Sticky Fingers)
- (*NB: Dinner at own cost)