

ANZAM Calendar of Events and Professional Development opportunities for members.

ANZAM runs Professional development sessions for its members. Some of these are specifically tailored to Associate/Student members, Heads of Schools or Institutional members.

Here is a quick snapshot of the sessions you may have missed AND read on to see what is coming up!

To find out more, visit ANZAM's Website / Videos. (Not all sessions are recorded).

DATE	SESSION DETAILS
26/11/21	The session brought together Professor Alex Newman and Professor Kevin Lowe who discussed the topic of conducting systematic literature reviews. They examined the benefits of conducting such reviews, provided advice around how to go about conducting a review and searching for literature, and highlighting the main issues that reviewers and editors will look at when evaluating a review. Professor Alexander Newman – Head of Department of Management, Deakin University. Professor Kevin Lowe – Professor of Leadership, University of Sydney Business School
30/11/21	ANZAM Doctoral Student Workshop A day-long workshop for ANZAM HDR student (Associate) members, held annually. Doctoral Representative 2021 – Mohammed Khaiata, University of Western Australia
01/12 – 02/12/21	ANZAM Conference, hosted by Edith Cowan University. Virtual format Conference Chairs 2021 – Professor Peter Galvin and Dr Andrei Lux, Edith Cowan University
17/02/22	ASSOCIATE/STUDENT PD "How to Publish" The first session featured Dr Alexandra Williamson of the Australian Centre for Philanthropy & Nonprofit Studies in the QUT Business School. Alex completed her PhD in 2018 and has a stunning publication track record already – so naturally she's going to share her tips on how to publish.
24/02/22	"Structural Equation Modelling" Structural Equation Modelling (SEM) is a powerful quantitative analytical technique that allows you to use a single simultaneous model to test multiple interactions between complex variables. In this session, Dr Matthew Xerri provided a personal introduction to the concepts and practice of SEM in a setting suitable for anyone with a basic knowledge of statistics, but limited-to-no knowledge of SEM. At the end of the session, participants will have a more nuanced understanding of the when, why and how of using (and publishing) SEM within the management discipline. Dr Matthew Xerri, Senior Lecturer – Griffith Business School
16/03/22	ASSOCIATE/STUDENT PD "An academic career in the new normal: Mission possible?" Presented by Dr Matthew Xerri, Senior Lecturer in HRM at Griffith Business School and HDR Convenor extraordinaire. Matt is going share his experience of the journey from PhD and casual academic to mid-career full-timer. Dr Matthew Xerri, Senior Lecturer – Griffith Business School
24/03/22	"Industry Engagement in Teaching and Learning" With a growing focus in the higher education sector on graduate employability, industry

	engagement in teaching and learning becomes an essential element to ensure institutions are delivering job ready graduates. In this webinar, the panel presented their different and varied approaches to engaging industry in teaching and learning, from assessment design to unit/course design. The webinar provided some insights from each of the individuals, but it is also a good forum to bring your examples so we can create a shared dialogue around, how in management schools/departments this is being done effectively. Presenters: Dr Justine Ferrer – Deakin University, Associate Professor Alan McWilliams – Victoria University and Professor Peter Holland – Swinburne University
13/04/22	ASSOCIATE/STUDENT PD "Academic life: The inside scoop" Sara Ekberg has a fascinating story to share about her journey from a doctoral student with 2 PhDs (!) to post-doctoral fellow and now full-time, early career academic. This is a candid look at the highs, lows and realities of life as an academic – and your chance to get answers to more of the questions you've always wanted to ask. Dr Sara Ekberg, Lecturer in Entrepreneurship – Griffith Business School
28/04/22	"The academic promotion process – a mysterious process" The academic promotion process is viewed by many to be a somewhat opaque and mysterious process. The perceived lack of transparency is driven by a number of factors including tradition, shifting institutional pressures, and differences in culture across institutions and between schools/departments. Further compounding the lack of clarity is the infrequent nature of academic promotion with four ranks (three promotions) typically the upper limit across a multi-decade career and differing standards at each promotion rank. In this session the panel will explore the factors, both formal and informal, that in our experience have driven the academic promotion process. Panel: Professor Kevin Lowe, The University of Sydney Business School. Dr Christine Contessotto, Associate Dean Teaching and Learning, Faculty of Business and Law, Deakin University. Professor Kerry Brown, School of Business and Law, Edith Cowan University. Professor Bevan Catley, School of Management, Massey University. Associate Professor Remi Ayoko, School of Business, University of Queensland.
25/05/22	ASSOCIATE/STUDENT PD "Managing your supervisor" This month we welcomed Anneke Fitzgerald. Anneke has a distinguished career during which time she has supervised 18 HDR students to completion. The session focussed on how to manage your supervisor and build and maintain a good relationship by understanding who they are, how they think and what is important for a sustained relationship. It touched on backgrounding and managing expectations; maintaining healthy relationships with the supervisory team; and overcoming some of the difficulties you might encounter. Emeritus Professor Anneke Fitzgerald – Griffith Business School
16/06/22	Mental Health and Wellbeing in Academia Marissa Edwards is an active researcher on mental health and wellbeing in academia, and has published several journal articles and book chapters on the topic. She is also currently part of a UQ team studying the mental health and wellbeing of PhD candidates. Marissa, along with likeminded colleagues, curates the 'Voices of Academia' project, which has a purpose of bringing together diverse voices to discuss mental health and wellbeing. Dr Marissa Edwards – UQ Business School

27/10/22	"To be or not to be social: Social media for academics"
12pm-1.30pm (AEDT/Sydney)	"To be or not to be social: Social Media for Academics", is an online, interactive workshop, that delves into the use of social media, specifically, LinkedIn and Twitter, for personal, professional Academic staff brand building. At the conclusion of the course, participants will have developed an understanding on how to leverage social media for personal Academic brand development. Participants will learn about the importance of having a personal brand building strategy that aligns with both personal and organisational development and branding opportunities. Personal brand building opportunities primarily on LinkedIn and also on Twitter will be discussed. Through an evaluation of extant social media content, participants will be guided to scrutinize for effectiveness, impact and engagement. Practical advice about tactics for building a personal and organisational brand will be discussed. Participants will be supported through the (re)building of their LinkedIn profile, followed by the preparation and publishing of a post relevant to their current position." Dr Violetta Wilk, Edith Cowan University Registration will open in September for this session.

November Date/time to be	"The Art of Academic writing and publishing for English as a second confirmed.	language (ESL) researchers" Academic performance is judged in part on one's level of linguistic competence in English. As a consequence, scholars who wish to succeed on the academic market must be able to write in English not only fluently but also eloquently. This places non-native English speakers in a disadvantageous position. The goal of this session is therefore to have a discussion regarding the various challenges that non-native English speakers face when writing and publishing in English. ANZAM will bring together a panel of experienced and well-published management researchers who approach the theme from diverse perspectives. Associate Professor Chia-Yen (Chad) Chiu will lead a panel.
