

Melbourne Business School
The University of Melbourne

Open rank position in Organisational Behaviour/Human Resource Management

The Melbourne Business School invites applications for an open-rank position located within the Organizational Behavior/Human Resource Management area. The Organizational Behavior/Human Resource Management cluster currently has 7 full time academic faculty, with research strengths in three broad areas: leadership and ethics, organisational relationships, and workplace diversity. Members of the cluster have active research interests in authenticity, behavioural ethics, diversity, justice, leadership, negotiation, power and status, and teams. Additional information about faculty research interests can be found on the faculty and research page at <https://mbs.edu/faculty-and-research/organisational-behaviour-and-human-resource-management>

About Melbourne Business School

Melbourne Business School, at the University of Melbourne, is a leading graduate business school in Australia and the Asia-Pacific Region. MBS offers MBA, Executive MBA, Master of Marketing, Master of Business Analytics, and PhD in Business Administration programs, as well as a suite of Executive Education offerings. The School's full-time MBA program has consistently featured in the Financial Times rankings and was ranked 1st in Australia by The Economist in 2021. The School's Master of Business Analytics program was ranked 15th globally and is top ranked in the Asia/Pacific region in the QS Business Masters Rankings: Business Analytics in 2021.

Applications

A position description and details of the application process can be found at <https://melbournebusinessschool.connxcareers.com/Job/Details/88fa825e65e04c12bf031e146fb12038?isiframe=False>

Inquiries may be directed to Professor Mara Olekalns, m.olekalns@mbs.edu

Closing date

February 1, 2023