ANZAM Professional Development session

This session is FREE to ANZAM Professional or Associate members, or for a small administrative charge of $20 for non-members, payable upon registration.

Co-Designing Management Research and Industry Engagement for Impact

1-Hour Lunchtime Session | Presented by ANZAM

How can we design research that not only advances theory but also drives real-world change?

This interactive workshop brings together leading academics with a proven track record of co-designing impactful research in collaboration with industry partners.

Together, we'll explore how co-design can:

Align academic inquiry with pressing industry and societal challenges

Shape research questions and methods collaboratively

Ensure research outcomes are actionable and meaningful for stakeholders

What to Expect:

Part 1: Insights from the Field

Our expert panel will share a range of co-design approaches—from hackathons to short-term innovation sprints and multi-stakeholder collaborations.

Part 2: Interactive Panel Discussion

Engage directly with the panel in a dynamic Q&A and discussion session.

Date: 1st July, 2025

Location: Online via Zoom

Time: 12pm-1pm (AEST/Sydney time)

Presenters:

* A/Prof Catherine Collins (UNSW Business School)
ARC-funded researcher on workplace collaboration and the future of work.

* Prof Marek Kowalkiewicz (QUT Business School)
Chair in Digital Economy, bestselling author, and Top 100 AI Thought Leader.

* Prof Karina Jorritsma (Curtin University)
Professor of Practice and Lead of the Thrive at Work initiative at the Future of Work Institute.

ANZAM Professional Development session

This session is FREE to ANZAM Professional or Associate members, or for a small administrative charge of $20 for non-members, payable upon registration.

"Academic collaboration as a motivational lynchpin of management research: An ERG perspective"

Academic researchers can be individualistic and competitive; however, collaboration proliferates because of the wider global competition among universities. This workshop facilitates insightful discussion of lynchpin motivations that may encourage or hinder academic collaboration. A specialised focus is on needs-based motivation offering opportunities for participant self-reflection, and improved management incentives maximising perceived and actual benefits from academic collaboration. In the literature, Existence-Relatedness-Growth (ERG) theory is resurgent, artificial Intelligence (AI) models human needs mechanisms (including ERG), and foothold moves from competitive strategy also play a role, thus, we workshop these interrelated ideas. Since collaboration drives academia, this workshop may appeal to academics seeking self-reflective understanding of lynchpin collaboration motivations, HDR students with interest in motivation and competitive strategy, and managers of academic researchers seeking more motivational insights especially as AI further encroaches.

Date: 5th August, 2025

Location: Online via Zoom

Time: 12pm-1pm (AEST/Sydney time)

Presenters:

- Dr Andrew Creed, Deakin University
- Professor Ambika Zutshi, Australian Catholic University
- Dr Marzena Baker, Australian Catholic University
- Associate Professor Pandula Gamage, Australian Catholic University

ANZAM Professional development sessions are FREE to ANZAM Professional and Associate members or for a small administrative charge of $20 per session (unless otherwise specified) to Non-members. You will be contacted upon registration to organise payment.
